LECTORI COLENDO
S. & O.

Major Scholæ gloria contingere nequit, quam si ex amplexibus illius prodeant viri, qui palmam eruditionis præripiant aliis, et laude meritorum in rempublicam et orbem litteratum nomen suum perpetuæ memoriæ commendent. Tales igitur cum, habita ratione Gymnasii Vinariensis sint Viri summe Reverendi et Excellentissimi Doctissimiq[ue] IOH. FRIDERICVS HIRT Apoldanus et FRIDERICVS SAMVEL ZICKLER Schwabsdorffiensis, Theologiæ Doctores et Philosophiæ Professores Extraordinarii celeberrimi in Academia Ienensi rel., rogatu prioris, ipsum A. C. 1738 d. 3. Oct. declamata solemniter oratione de fortitudine sagata non inferiori togata; posteriorem vero A. C. 1740 d. 20 Apr. pariter post publice declamat~~am~~ orationem de fructibus doctrinæ utilitatibus publicis, Gymnasium nostrum cum laude reliquisse, et in academiam commigrasse, ex Programatibus b. KIESEWETTERI, Gymnasii nostri olim Inspectoris et Professoris meritissimi, quæ in manibus meis sunt, et quorum prius de doctrina oretenus exercitatis, posterius de continuata presse leniterque loquentium imitatione agit, testor. C A R P O V, Jacob - German Mathematician, Philosopher & Theologist

B. September 29, 1699. Goslar
D. June 9, 1768. Weimar

His lectures on Wolff's Philosophy caused him difficult controversies but the Duke Ernst August of Saxe-Weimar gave him the opportunity to finish his intended great theological work. Well known were among other mathematical papers the DISPUT. MATH. DE PRINCIPIIS ARTIS NAUTICAE IN MATHESI QUAERENDIS.
